The Oslo has strong connections with its Scandinavian name sake, and it is apt that the capital of Norway offers you the best hospitality in the world and that Uniglobe proffer that 'tourists are often surprised for being treated like royalty – even those on tight budgets'

The Oslo is set to have a modern contemporary look with painted and light oak elements throughout with inspiration taken from Scandinavian design, creating a clean and relaxing home.

The sunny yellow fabrics with grey and white furnishings create a vibrant inviting and stylish interior, again linking to the fact that Norway is known as the 'land of the midnight sun.' Vaulted ceilings, white panelled ceiling and an exposed oak stained beam all add fine detail if you look up.

INVITING & STYLISH

The open-plan living area flows perfectly the moment you enter the home, with bright light, both natural and artificial, creating an inviting atmosphere. Beautifully designed, the overall interior styling is already evident here.

The lounge is perfectly elegant and timeless, with stunning yellow fabrics with soft grey and white painted furniture with real wood tops add to the modern yet homely feel.

Imagine casting your mind away to a fjord whilst sat in front of a raging log fire, a utopian dream of affordable opulence from the Oslo.

The kitchen and dining area holds the same contemporary feel with a beautiful painted dining table with solid wood top and six fabric chairs to match.

The fine detail in this lodge is so seamless that it's almost subliminal; you have to consciously look closer at everything to appreciate how well it's designed. It would almost be impossible not to love a stay in it.
